

OFFICERS ARE TO HEAD BOY SCOUTS ON THEIR RETURN

Don't take off the khaki—just change the buttons. Many Memphis officers returning from France may accept this invitation from the Boy Scouts of America, head the new troops that are to be formed, and act as scout masters for a four troop unit without leave.

The national organization of the scouts has launched a campaign to the great returned and retired army officers in the scout movement and Memphis scout leaders are preparing to offer every inducement to Memphians who surrender their commissions in the United States army and return to civil life.

It is hoped that within a year the city organization will have 200 members. This means organizing a number of new troops and it is believed that army men who have had the experience of commanding men in action—men who will appeal to the hero-worship that is a part of the being of every boy—will make the best masters for these new organizations.

Scout leaders are asking civilians who have friends in the army to urge them to take the Scout work upon their return to Memphis.

Major John M. Clement, of the 8th Infantry, is at the present time the first army officer to accept this new scout slogan for himself.

Major Clement has recently returned from active service on the western battle front, where he was sent to study conditions of trench warfare.

The acceptance of a position as scoutmaster by Gen. Clement has made it difficult for other men to refuse a like call on the ground of multiplicity of duties, as Gen. Clement in addition to an extensive law practice has been chairman of the fourth Liberty loan campaign for his district and has been identified with every war work activity since his return from the front.

Indict Eight On Charge Violating Liquor Laws Here

Sam and Jacob S. Gold, arrested by Sheriff Perry several days ago when the officer confiscated an automobile load of whisky, containing 25 cases in all, were indicted by the grand jury Tuesday on charges of violating the liquor law. The car is being held by the sheriff until the owners can show why a Cadillac had a Ford license on it.

Other indictments, in which violations of the liquor law are charged, were returned against Robert J. Partee, Joe Nighingale, C. P. Fox, King Wallace, Isadore Jones and J. T. Shelton.

Five negroes were indicted for murder in the first degree. They were Inzo and Waymon Tice, Dennis and Roger Williams and Peter Cowpood. They are charged with murdering a negro woman near Benjenneton.

The Tices and Williams were tried in May before Hugh McGowen, acting as special judge of the Second criminal court, and convicted. All except Roger Williams were convicted of murder in the first degree. He was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter. Peter Cowpood, at large when the four were tried, later was apprehended. He said he was the one who shot the woman dead and absolved the others from participation in the crime. A new trial was granted the four.

An error in the indictment against Cowpood was discovered when the case came before Judge Hersh last week and the indictment was recommitted to the grand jury.

Frank Guillou was indicted on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen property. Francis Dickman, criminal operation, and Brady Simmons, carrying a pistol. Fifteen persons in all were indicted, but three were not made public. Two bills of indictment were ignored.

HUN SOME SPRINTER, DECLARES BERLACK

A letter from "Bills" Berlack, Company A, 11th P. A., written the latter part of October, gives an indication of the esteem in which the Yanks held the Hun.

"For two weeks," writes Berlack, "we've been kept so busy I haven't had time to spend my last month's pay. You'll admit that's some busy. We've taken them on catch-and-escape and any old weight. Yesterday we tied up with an outfit that was supposed to be the best fire squad we had, but as our bunch gave an indication of a Memphis election the Germans soon lost their reputation. Give Hun a chance to run and catching him is just as easy as catching a seat on a 5:29 car."

In another letter written two weeks later Berlack states that he has been made wireless operator. He says: "Having it pretty soft just now. Nice large dugout (uninhabited) for four of us with nothing much to do unless one wants to take a stroll out in No. Man's hand in search of exercise. Somehow, under the circumstances, I've lost my taste for exercise."

LIEUT. WARE KILLED IN LAST DAYS OF THE WAR

News of the death of Lieut. Baxter Ware, 56th Infantry, Seventh division, A. E. F., was received Tuesday by his wife, Mrs. Martha Warner Ware, McClure avenue.

The message from the war department stated that he died Nov. 9 from wounds received in action. Lieut. Ware was trained with the home guards in Memphis and entered the officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe on Aug. 27, 1917, where he was awarded a commission as lieutenant. He was assigned to duty at Waco, Tex., for a while and was sent shortly afterward to France.

Letters received from him until almost the conclusion of the war indicated that he was not in action. He had been assigned to general training school for special work, and his last letter stated that he was leaving to join his regiment.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Martha Warner Ware, a native of France, but who came to this country from Switzerland, a small son, Robert Kenneth Ware, his mother, Mrs. Beulah Ware, a sister, Miss Adelle Ware, and two brothers, Sherley, of San Antonio, and Robert, of New Orleans.

Lieut. Ware was a well-known Memphis athlete. He began the practice of law with Duncan Martin. He was born in Hot Springs, Ark., where his family was prominent, and was educated at the University of Arkansas.

WILLIAM H. BATES BURIED IN ELMWOOD

Funeral of William H. Bates, 67, president of S. C. Toof & Co., who was found dead in bed Tuesday, was conducted from the late residence, 357 Linden avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery, and the services at the grave were held by Rev. W. E. Ellis, pastor, Ky. former pastor of Linden Avenue Christian church, who came to Memphis to officiate.

A host of bereaved friends and relatives extended their sympathy to the family of the veteran business man. Flowers in profusion bore evidence of endearment from his many associates.

Mr. Bates came to Memphis in the fall of 1863, having been born near Mount Pleasant, Iowa, on Oct. 24, 1851. He first worked in the city as a printer, and became a member of the firm of S. C. Toof & Co. in 1878. He was elected in 1903 to one term in the city council. He was also a prominent Mason and member of the Scottish Rite.

Active pallbearers were: J. P. Edgington, St. Elmo Newton, L. E. Roswell, Joseph Mesbrom, J. A. Crawford, Bert Parker, Will Overton and C. P. J. Mooney.

Honorary pallbearers were: E. Lowenstein, M. E. Carter, W. S. Jones, W. J. Crawford, W. B. Maloney, W. J. Canada, Luke D. Wright, Frank G. Jones, Jr., J. B. McElroy, O. M. Peck, H. Morris, Miss Adla Harris, Robinson and Otto Zahn.

Mr. Bates is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary H. Bates, and three sons, Mrs. John G. Little and Mrs. Grace Toof.

LABOR BOARD FORCE EXTENDS ACTIVITIES

Women's interests are to be represented on the community labor board. Two new members have been added to the board and were formally admitted to the organization's council at a meeting Wednesday morning. The new members are Miss Adla Harris, assistant secretary of the Tri-State Fair association, and Mrs. Jessie Reeves Sanders, assistant manager of the Underwood Typewriter company's Memphis branch. It will be their duty to handle all problems of the board relating to women workers and working conditions for women in Memphis.

The board Wednesday morning completed arrangements for the industrial canvass of Memphis. All employers instead of sending copies of their payrolls to the federal labor agency, will henceforth submit reports of the number of persons employed for the week. These are to be submitted each week in order that the reports may be telegraphed to the department of labor in Washington each Tuesday.

"I yell! You yell! All yell—C-e-n-t-r-a-l!"

Such is the spirit of Central high school in preparing for the annual Thanksgiving game Thursday afternoon with the Memphis University school.

Central high is planning for a great day. The team, supported by the U. S. cadets, high school orchestra, and "central high boosters" in automobiles, will parade on Main street at 12 o'clock Thursday morning.

A number of Central high's most charming and most popular young girls will act as sponsors for the players at the game. Their "boosting" ought to make any team win—and Central high has not lost in several years.

CENTRAL HIGH IN FINE SPIRITS FOR BIG GAME

Joe and Will Johnson, alias Robinson, negroes of Guntison, Miss., were cautious enough of Memphis' bad element to handle all problems of the board relating to women workers and working conditions for women in Memphis.
